

Travel Hacks

Two travel hacks that have saved my car and my sanity –

One awesome hack that I love, and use (a lot) is that I utilize Amazon Prime while traveling. I always forget and/or need something and it never fails it's something I (kind of) desperately need. I ordered a Pack n Play sheet and shipped to my mom's house. I didn't have any time to go get one anywhere so it worked out great (it showed up at her house, about 30 minutes after I did!).

My other travel NECESSITY is...for those with small children, or messy passengers. These floor mats are SO WORTH the investment. One of my very good friends had these in her Expedition a few years back, and when I got my Yukon XL I knew these were a necessity. They make mats that are custom fit for certain makes and models of vehicles.

Once a week, I use my DustBuster and vacuum out the mats. Then I use Clorox wipes and wipe everything down. It keeps my car so clean, and helps my OCD mommy brain. Plus, when the girls drop some snacks, it makes it pretty easy to clean everything up!

Two silly yet incredibly helpful tips to help with travels and keep things easy!
